Translation and Interpretation

Scope of work for Play to Learn 2024

Sesame Workshop and its partners are leading on the Play to Learn Project to support new early childhood development programs for millions of children affected by the Rohingya and Syrian refugee crises. The 6-year program leverages the power of learning through play, providing communities affected by refugee crises access to vital early learning opportunities.

The Play to Learn project has a variety of interpretation and translation needs in 2024. These include:

1. Translation of English-language technical documents linked to technology, interventions, and research for early childhood development programs (including quality assurance for translations).
2. Remote simultaneous interpretation at meetings
3. Design translation of toolkits, infographics, or other visualizations of technical information, which would require the capacity to work with inDesign files.
4. An ability to work with organizations of people with disabilities to agree on appropriate translations for terms related to disabilities, disability inclusion, or the rights of people with disabilities.

The total budget for the portfolio of work is $50,000. We anticipate work will begin in March 2024 and finish in September 2024 (with the majority of the work happening in March-June 2024).

Languages required include Arabic, Bangla, and Spanish.
